Letter from the Editor

To the Alumni, Students, Faculty, Staff, Friends and all members of the extended St. Michael's family,

Welcome to this special issue of DoubleBlue. The University of St. Michael's College is celebrating! During the next fifteen months, the St. Michael's family takes the opportunity to recognize this institution's remarkable sesquicentennial anniversary. Our theme is "Celebrating our heritage, building our future."

This issue includes a report on the appointment of a new Dean at the Faculty of Theology. Sr. Anne Anderson, CSJ has undertaken this challenging position at a critical time in the faculty's endeavours. Read about a very special St. Michael's convocation that took place 14 June 2001. Our staff profile reflects another beloved figure on campus - Mario Pugliese. Many of you will remember our favorite groundskeeper. Enjoy the pictures and report from Spring Reunion 2001. New to this issue is a capsule report from the Student's Corner.

St. Michael's thanks all of you who participated so generously in this year's Faith, Hope and Charity Annual Fund Campaign. Congratulations to the organizing committee.

On a special note, I want to express my deep appreciation to the Editorial Committee and staff at the Office of Alumni Affairs and Development who have worked so hard to bring this issue to you. I want to thank in particular Rev. Robert Madden, CSB, the newsletter's former editor, who has provided extensive support and counsel as well as his delightful INFO UPDATE BRAVO. I am grateful to the efforts of the writers and others that have worked so diligently. Of course, know that this issue has had the loving, unmistakable guidance of my Alumni Associate, Eva Wong.

We hope that this newsletter will rekindle fond memories and initiate a desire for as many of you as possible to come back to the campus and share in the festivities that are being planned. See the centre page for one of the highlights. In front of the venerable St. Basil's Church built in 1856, stands, almost completed, a new residence. This structure has been modeled to maintain the authenticity of the architectural landscape initiated so long ago. Its official opening in October marks a highpoint of the sesquicentennial celebration - truly representative of "Celebrating our heritage, building our future."

If you are not able to return, keep St. Michael's in your hearts. You are all representatives of why there is so much heritage to celebrate and so much hope for the future.

As I write this on a sunny and sweltering Toronto August morning, construction crews are busy putting the final touches on our new residence building in preparation for the arrival of its first occupants just after Labour Day. I am pleased to report that the two-year planning, design and construction process will not only be completed on schedule and within budget, a rare occurrence for such projects, but that the final result will be a handsome addition to the historic St. Michael's campus. Already the College is receiving glowing congratulations from across the University and city for this, the first new building St. Michael's has constructed in over thirty years. I am particularly pleased with the very positive way the building design and materials relate to and compliment St. Basil's Church and Odette Hall (Clover Hill). To my mind, though, the residence is far more than just a new building that we can all admire. It is also symbolic of the renewal and new initiatives that are so apparent on our campus as we approach the 150th anniversary of our founding.

On September 15, 1852, St. Michael's College opened its doors in the Bishop's Palace at 200 Church Street for eight students. This year, for the first time in our history, the College's enrollment will exceed 4,000, an indication of the continuing demand by students for places both at St. Michael's and the University of Toronto as a whole. The need for residence places is also stronger than ever, and with our new building in operation, we will now be able to accommodate nearly 750 students between the men's residence and the St. Joseph's College and Loretto College women's residences. The College is extremely pleased to be able to provide this service to our large student body.

When most of us think back on our days at St. Michael's, we probably have in our minds the undergraduate arts and science program that has been the central focus of the College since its federation with the University of Toronto early in the twentieth century. Undergraduate teaching remains our raison d'être, but increasingly we are also taking on new responsibilities as part of our broader mission to serve the Church and society in addressing issues of contemporary interest and concern. Just as the Basilian Fathers of the 1920's recognized the need to establish at St. Michael's an Institute of Mediaeval Studies to take a leading role in the then current neo-scholastic revival and rediscovery of mediaeval culture, so today we are being proactive in considering the needs of our own time. The Continuing Education Division's new program in corporate social responsibility and in service provision to the homeless are two such initiatives that demonstrate we are taking our outreach to society seriously. The newly established Canadian Catholic Bioethics Institute, located on campus and officially affiliated with the College, will be in the vanguard in addressing ethical issues of contemporary concern from a Catholic intellectual perspective. A research and resource centre, it is intended to assist Catholic bishops, health care workers and the Catholic community as a whole in coming to grips with the multitude of complex ethical issues currently arising in medicine and the life sciences. Similarly, the international symposium on Catholic-

Jewish relations to be sponsored and hosted by St. Michael's in October will consider a topic of particular relevance for contemporary Catholic theology and Church life. Cardinal Edward Cassidy, past President of the Pontifical Council for Christian Unity with responsibility also for relations with the Jewish people, will deliver the keynote address, and the conference is intended to further the remarkable and positive shift that has occurred in Christian-Jewish relations during the last thirty years. In all these areas, graduates can take pride that St. Michael's is taking a position of leadership.

Finally, reflecting this theme of growth and renewal, those visiting campus will notice that our impressive collection of outdoor sculpture, begun in the 1970's, continues to grow and enhance the beauty of the College property. The latest addition, "Neighbours", by Joe Rosenthal, was installed in July near Queen's Park Crescent under the careful supervision of donor Mr. Louis Odette. It joins pieces by sculptors such as Kosso Eloul, William McElcheran and Anne Allardyce to make the St. Michael's campus one of the most richly endowed in this regard in Canada. All these good things going on at your College are a direct outcome of the continuing interest and generous support of our graduates throughout Canada, the United States, and abroad. On behalf of the current and of future generations of St. Mike's students I thank you for this and warmly encourage as many of you as possible to come back for a visit at some point during our eighteen-month sesquicentennial celebrations.

Letter from the Alumni President

Several years ago, the alumni board, along with other members of the SMC community, met to review and update the objectives of the Alumni Association. As a result of our deliberations, it was endorsed that the core purpose of the St. Michael's College Alumni Association is to create and foster connections between alumni and the college that build on the spirit and traditions of St. Michael's. Taking it further, this core purpose is accomplished by following our core values:

- Having respect, concern and understanding for each individual and their beliefs
- Fostering ongoing membership in the SMC family, community or experience
- Openly professing our Catholic faith
- Actively building upon our Christian intellectual heritage

The alumni are represented by a Board of Directors voted into office every two years at the Alumni Association Annual General Meeting. Every alumnus/a of St. Michael's College is eligible to attend this meeting, propose candidates for the Board and vote them into office. The normal term of office for a board member is two years although some board members continue for additional terms.

The Board of Directors is led by an Executive Committee composed of the Association President, Past President, Secretary, and the Chairs of the working committees of the Board. The four current working committees are Finance, Communications, Events and Membership. Every Board

Welcome

Hi everyone and welcome back to school! We just wanted to take this opportunity to introduce ourselves and tell you a little bit about what we do. We are the St. Michael's College Student Union (SMCSU) and our job is to make SMC fun, friendly, and unforgettable. Our council consists of six different commissions each headed by a commissioner. These commissions include Day Students Advisory Commission (DSAC), Theatre, Athletics, Religious Affairs, and more! SMCSU also sponsors a number of clubs on campus, including Student's for Life, the SMC Debating Union, and Out of the Cold. For more details on SMCSU and how you can get involved, check out our website at www.smcsu.com or stop by our office, which is in Brennan Hall, or call us at (416) 926-7268. We look forward to meeting you, so don't be a stranger!

Kate Figueiredo (SMCSU Vice-President)

member is expected to serve on one working committee. However, any alumnus who is interested in participating in the active functions of the Association is welcome to be on a Board committee without assuming the responsibilities of Board membership. Finally, in order to ensure that all the alumni constituencies have the best possible representation, each graduating year is represented by at least one class representative. The class rep(s) have primarily been involved with assisting the Association staff with the organization of their class reunions.

The purpose of this "Civics lesson" is not only to acquaint you with the organization of your Alumni Association but also to encourage your involvement and support. For those of you who have been ongoing supporters of the Association, we applaud and thank you. For those of you who may not have had the opportunity to be involved with your College since graduation, we look forward to welcoming you back.

We have a big job to do over the next year to celebrate St. Michael's 150th anniversary properly, and we need all the help we can get. As my mother always said, "many hands make light work". I hope the Association can count on you in the coming year.

St. Michael's College has produced many leaders. In the field of law, one of the most distinguished of our alumni is Professor Paul C. Weiler. He may not be renowned in general society, but his contribution to the constitutional life of our nation is second to none.

Paul Weiler graduated from SMC in 1960 and received an MA in Philosophy in 1961; Professors Etienne Gilson and Jacques Maritain were among the teachers who influenced his philosophical education. One of his College roommates was the Hon. Paul Martin, the present Canadian Federal Minister of Finance. He was persuaded to study law by no less than Bora Laskin (a friend of Paul's father, Bernie Weiler, SMC '31), soon-to-be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada. Paul pursued his legal studies at Osgoode Hall and Harvard Law School.

After a remarkable career as Professor of Legal Philosophy, (focussing on shaping the judicial system) at Osgoode Hall Law School, Professor Weiler took leave to chair the Labour Board of British Columbia. He then returned to Harvard Law School as the Mackenzie King Professor of Canadian Studies and created Harvard's Canadian Program, which has brought to the Harvard campus distinguished Canadian public figures, including four recent Prime Ministers. While continuing his role in the Canadian Program, Professor Weiler has become Harvard's Friendly Professor of Law, teaching and writing about the Law of Work and Torts, and most recently, the Law of Entertainment and Sports.

Although Weiler's contribution to academe is substantial, his work has also been influential in shaping the laws and politics of Canada and the US for over three decades. Perhaps his greatest contribution to Canada's constitutional life came in the form of the both famous and infamous "Notwithstanding Clause" that was pivotal to the adoption of the Canadian Constitution and Charter of Rights and Freedoms. One key term of his initial proposal, changed in last minute negotiations with the Provinces, would have been more respectful of the notions of individual freedom and liberty of the citizen.

Always on the leading edge of hot legal topics, Professor Weiler's forthcoming book, his fifteenth, Speaking for Fun and Profit, addresses the timely issues of cultural protection and promotion, and freedom of expression. This expected work will provide provocative suggestions about preserving and promoting Canadian values while guarding against indiscriminate subsidy of the film industry by the taxpayer.

Paul Weiler remains attached to the country of his birth and to St. Michael's. Throughout my discussion with him, he referred fondly to his frequent trips to Canada to visit with family and friends, and to the ski slopes in Ontario and British Columbia. He credits St. Michael's with having furnished him with the intellectual and moral grounding that influences his life and work.

On June 18th, the University of Toronto, for the first time in its history, witnessed a session of its spring Convocation comprised entirely of St. Michael's College graduands. In recent years St. Michael's College and Innis College, respectively the largest and smallest undergraduate colleges on the St. George campus, have shared a single Convocation exercise. This year, however, the size of the St. Michael's graduating class warranted a Convocation ceremony devoted solely to our College. And what a special ceremony it was!

In keeping with the all-St. Mike's theme, the University of Toronto bestowed honorary degrees on two SMC grads, Fr. M. Owen Lee, CSB, '53 author, lecturer, "Live from the Met" intermission commentator and quiz panelist, and Professor Emeritus of Classics at St. Michael's in the University of Toronto, and Dr Emöke Jolan Szathmáry '68, noted Anthropologist, teacher, author, academic administrator, and President and Vice-Chancellor of the University of Manitoba. Robert Birgeneau (SMC '63), President of the University of Toronto, and the Honourable Henry N.R. Jackman, Chancellor of the University, presided over Convocation. Dr. Richard Alway '62, President of the University of St. Michael's College, and Karl G. Amrhein, Dean of UofT's Faculty of Arts and Science, and a Fellow of the College, welcomed all present to the ceremony.

The addresses of Dr. Szathmáry and Fr. Lee to Convocation added to the special quality of this Convocation, and underlined its unique St. Michael's character. Each speaker referred to the value of the education the graduates had received, and the role they could play in bettering a society that needs their intelligence, honesty, and dedication. They emphasized the importance of giving back to society more than they had received, and encouraged them to continue to learn.

From near and afar they came - Toronto, Windsor, Ottawa, Calgary, Rochester, New York, Syracuse, Buffalo, Boston, Cleveland, and even a Trappist monastery in Argentina; men and women of St. Michael's, St. Joseph's and Loretto Colleges, day-hops and residents alike, all came back to Spring Reunion 2001, to reunite and celebrate their respective anniversaries of graduation from the University of Toronto.

As they remembered, reminisced and laughed together, it was clear that the camaraderie of those formative years spent together at St. Michael's and the University of Toronto have remained forever etched in their hearts and minds. Old photographs caused recollections to come flooding back: the first 'Coop' set up in the basement of House 49, where Carr Hall stands today; House 63 on the north side of Fisher/More Houses, where Fr. Joe Dorsey presided; women's classes in English, Latin, and French all taught in St Joseph's College and Loretto College, then located on St George St.; the 'Western' students, Americans who came up to St. Michael's and lived in the original Elmsley House (House 13) up on the hill, just north of Brennan Hall; Music and Drama Society gatherings on Sunday nights in Brennan Hall, football games in Varsity Stadium ... it went on and on; the memories were sweet, and included fond recollections of classmates who have died.

Everyone lingered late in Elmsley Lounge on Friday night, on Saturday many wandered around the University Campus to view the 'new' and to enjoy the 'old', and some attended the Garden Party at the U of T's President's home before returning for a fun-filled dinner together at St. Mike's, where SMC Principal Joseph Boyle outlined some of the exciting developments at the College. The weekend concluded on Sunday with Mass in the Chapel with Father Bob Madden as the Celebrant, and a final Brunch together before people somewhat reluctantly said their farewells and went off to catch their planes, or drive back to their several destinations. All were grateful to Eva Wong and all those at St. Mike's who made the weekend so memorable.

Obviously my academic life was very demanding. I soon realized that my personal and spiritual life needed attention. I transferred to St. Michael's College and a long and cherished association began

Learning about the history and spirituality of Catholicism from many dedicated scholars enriched my intellectual experience and complemented my physical studies of the cosmos

I will always hold dear the memory of wonderful Fr. Kelly... He and the teachers at St. Mike's made me feel like a person within a community

The reception and dinner on Saturday were absolutely splendid; we talked and swapped stories until well after midnight. At Sunday Mass, we filled the chapel at St. Basil's and prayed and sang together, happy to be a community in celebration. Brunch on that sunny warm morning was light hearted with friends new and old talking together. A warm thank you to the organizing committee ended the reunion weekend, but I am sure that all of us are looking forward to the next reunion."

Sister Anne Anderson, CSJ

The Faculty of Theology is very happy to report that Dr. Anne Anderson, CSJ, has been appointed to succeed Dr. Brian Hogan, CSB, as Dean commencing 1 July 2001. Many alumnae and alumni know Dr. Anderson as the Director of our Israel Program and for her work in Jewish Studies. She brings a wealth of administrative experience from her involvement in the health care system at both the local and provincial levels. She has been a member of the Faculty of Theology since 1988, serving the Faculty and the Toronto School of Theology as an instructor, committee member, spiritual advisor and valued colleague.

Dr. Anderson is a member of the Congregation of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Hamilton and currently serves her Congregation as a member of its general curia. Active involvement in the works of her Congregation have nurtured the many administrative and personal skills that bode well for the future of the Faculty of Theology. Dr. Anderson's appointments in health care administration have included membership on the Boards of Directors of the Catholic Health Association of Ontario and the Catholic Health Association of Canada. She held the position of President of the Catholic Health Association of Ontario for two terms. In her capacity as a General Councillor of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Hamilton, Dr. Anderson is the President and Chairperson of the St. Joseph's Health Care System (Hamilton).

But health care administration has not entirely absorbed Dr. Anderson's creative energies. She led the Faculty of Theology through its self-study in anticipation of re-accreditation by the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada. Her commitment to scholarship has seen the recent publication of "Handing on Belief" in Spirituality and the Jewish-Christian Dialogue, The Way Supplement, (Spring 2000). With Professor Mary Rose D'Angelo she co-edited Crossroads in Theology: Essays for Ellen M. Leonard, CSJ, Toronto Journal of Theology, (Fall 2000). Dr. Anderson currently chairs the Pastoral Theology Department of the Toronto School of Theology and will continue to teach in her area of expertise for the Faculty, though at a reduced level.

Dr. Anderson will find many opportunities to implement our vision statement, "faithful and creative theology, today and tomorrow," in the years ahead. The Faculty of Theology, the University community, the Basilian Fathers of Toronto and Dr. Anderson's religious congregation rejoice in her appointment and pledge their support throughout her tenure of office.

Lawrence Lynch '36, 1915-2001

[A brief summary of reflections on the life of Lawrence Lynch, presented at the Mass of Christian Burial by Fr. Robert Madden, CSB '52. Full text available on SMC website]

From his 12th until his 70th year, except for his World War II years in the US Naval Intelligence followed by one year teaching at Marianapolis College in Montreal, Larry Lynch was intimately involved as student, alumnus, teacher, administrator and valued councilor in St. Michael's and in the University of Toronto. Even in his retirement, as long as his health allowed, he responded generously whenever his advice and help were sought. Our debt to Larry Lynch is, without exaggeration, immense; our appreciation of, and gratitude for, his many contributions to our histories and to the preservation and enhancement of our traditions cannot be adequately expressed. So often his example and leadership reminded us of what we were founded to be and do.

Larry was a gifted student and athlete; by the time he was twenty-five he had earned a Licentiate in Mediaeval Studies from the Pontifical Institute, and B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Toronto, and had played football for St. Michael's and for the University Varsity Blues. In 1938 he began to teach at St. Michael's, entering upon a brilliant academic career as an outstanding teacher, a helpful but appropriately demanding thesis supervisor, a dedicated educator, a respected scholar and author, and a trusted administrator. As teacher and mentor he always showed great respect for students, was encouragingly interested in their views, and gladly acknowledged their contributions to the overall life of the College and to the University. He was Chairman of the St. Michael's Philosophy Department for fifteen years and in 1976 became our first lay Principal. Of his tenure as Principal, Professor David Dooley said, "Dr. Lynch has established clearly that the Principal has an essential function to perform.... We are very grateful to him for all that he has done." As an administrator, Larry's collegial exercise of authority was exemplary; you could tell he looked upon the office as one of service, always balancing his respect for the individual and his or her ideas, with his own loyalty and obligations to the integrity of the mission and nature of the institution. Always a gentleman, he was by nature cordial and welcoming. When you were in conversation with him, you knew that you had his attention. The Honourable Bob Rae, former Premier of Ontario, said of his student relationship with Larry, "Dr. Lynch is the most sensitive listener I have ever met, anywhere!"

The Second Vatican Council of 1962-65 spoke of the necessity to read the signs of the times, and drew attention once more to the importance of the involvement of the laity in the secular world. In many ways Larry Lynch not only reflected but also even anticipated the Council. From his first academic days he, like St. Thomas More and other great Christian Humanists, firmly believed in an appropriate relationship between the light of Christian Revelation and the light of human reason and secular learning. He was committed to fostering the dialogue between religious Faith and secular society, between the world of academe and the world of practical politics, of commerce, and of ordinary daily life. The late Professor William Dunphy, Larry's successor as Principal of St. Michael's, presented him for the St. Michael's honorary degree of Doctor of Sacred Letters in 1987 and noted his extraordinarily extensive involvement in public service. It was obvious that Larry Lynch did not live in an academic ivory tower!

Larry's conviction of the beneficial relationship between Faith and Reason is, I believe, reflected in his close relationship with almost every level of the life of the University of Toronto- he believed that this was where he, where St. Michael's, had an obligation and a right to be, where neither was to be absorbed nor their principles compromised, but rather where both were to be mutually respectful partners and beneficiaries in the search for, and teaching of, the truth. The many positions he held on the University's governing bodies, councils and committees are eloquent testimony to the esteem in which he was held and to the reputation he had as a man of intelligence, openness, insight and integrity.

At the heart of all that Larry Lynch was and did was his devotion to his family and to his Faith. Again like St. Thomas More, he was a constant family man, a supportive and loving presence, faithfully present to family members in the various stages of their lives. Although he was not an ostentatiously religious person, all who knew him knew he was a man of deep religious faith, firmly devoted to his Church and actively involved in its life. Christian baptism and confirmation call and empower us to be instruments of God's love and God's truth in our world; Larry Lynch was faithful to that vocation.

As student, teacher, administrator, husband, father and friend, he has been a model of the Christian life for many, many individuals; I know he has been a model for me. Each Christian is called to enter into the Paschal Mystery, the mystery to which Paul gives expression in the second reading in today's liturgy, "If we have died with Christ we shall also live with him; if we persevere we shall also reign with him." In the many ways that Larry gave himself in the service of others he imitated Christ's dying to self. Over the last fourteen years, and especially in these last months, Larry answered God's invitation to share more deeply in the sufferings of Christ with characteristic courage, patience, and trusting faith. To the very end he was a model of a faithful disciple of Jesus Christ.

Professor and Principal Lawrence Lynch '36 1915-2001 "His example and leadership reminded us of what we were founded to be and do."

Fr. James McConica, CSB, admitted as Officer of the Order of Canada by the Hon. Adrienne Clarkson, Governor General of Canada

The appointment of Rev. James K. McConica, CSB, O.C., LL.D., D. Litt., F.R.H.S., F.R.S.C., F.B.A. as an Officer in the Order of Canada was announced on 14 February 2001. The official citation of Fr. McConica, Praeses of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies and President Emeritus and Vice-Chancellor Emeritus of the University of St. Michael's College, reads, "he is an eminent scholar and recognized expert in mediaeval, renaissance and reformation periods, whose work in Tudor history has received international accolades. Included among his more than fifty historical studies is a significant and sensitive portrayal of Thomas More. Notably, he edited and interpreted The Collected Works of Erasmus and The History of the University of Oxford'. Fr. McConica, as the citation concludes, is "a classic humanist whose influence resonates throughout academic circles in Canada and abroad."

Cleo Boyd, formerly Director of the St. Michael's College Writing Lab, received the 2001 Joan E. Foley Quality of Student Experience Award. Through her groundbreaking work in the field of instructional development, she is changing the environment for learners across campus and around the world. As Director of the Academic Skills Centre at the UofT's Mississauga Campus, Cleo helped thousands of students develop problem-solving skills, enabling them to participate fully in academic life. The tools she developed to diagnose and solve learning problems have proved immensely popular. Pharmacy Faculties across the country use Cleo's diagnostic assessments and student-profiling instruments to encourage, and cultivate students' learning abilities and methods during, and after the undergraduate years.

The 2001 Northrop Frye Award was presented to the Joseph Sablé Centre for 19th Century French Studies, a division of the UofT's Department of French. Founded in 1999 and still located in the St. Michael's John M. Kelly Library, the Sablé Centre houses some 15,000 books of the period and 25,000 letters from and to the noted 19th Century author, Emile Zola; it provides students with an unprecedented exposure to a rare and unique collection of works. The director of the Centre, Professor Yannick Portebois, and the curator of the Zola archives, Professor Dorothy Speirs, have made remarkable efforts to turn research into a learning experience for undergraduates. In one exciting project, a group of five students, under the supervision of Professor Speirs, travelled to Paris to conduct research on Zola's novels at the Bibliothèque Nationale. The students experienced some of Zola's world and had the opportunity of meeting experts in French Literature as well as descendants of Zola's own family.

Loretto College Appoints New Dean

Sister Mary Di Girolamo, IBVM has been appointed Dean of Loretto College to succeed Dr. Laurelle LeVert, whose term of office has concluded. A member of the Institute of the Blessed

Sr. Mary Di Girolamo, IBVM

Virgin Mary, Sr. Mary was raised and educated in Toronto and over the past several years has been centrally involved in Catholic education in the Archdiocese. Recently retired from the Educational Resource Staff of the Toronto Catholic District School Board, she brings to her new role as Dean extensive experience in counseling. Her life as a Loretto Sister has included a variety of ministries that will serve her well in her position as Dean. Sister Mary looks forward to the challenge of participating in the St. Michael's College Community. An extrovert by nature, relaxation for her includes friends, stimulating conversation, and international cuisine. The new Dean of Loretto College will find her creativity, ingenuity, and wisdom challenged in 2001 (and after!) as she explores new paths, new ideas and new beginnings.

Newly Established Catholic Bioethics Institute Affiliated with St. Michael's

At its 15 March 2001 meeting, the Senate of the University of St. Michael's College approved the affiliation of the newly established Canadian Catholic Bioethics Institute with St. Michael's. This national Institute, located at St. Michael's, is a privately funded foundation with the support of the Archdiocese of Toronto, of other Catholic Dioceses, the Canadian Association of the Order of Malta, plus a further broad range of individuals and groups. It will act as a research and resource centre designed to strengthen the Catholic voice in the public domain and to be of concrete service to Catholic bishops, health care workers, and the Catholic community as a whole at a time when the number and complexity of ethical issues emerging in medicine and in the life sciences demand a concerted and well deliberated response from the Catholic community. The Director of the Institute, William Sullivan, M.D., is a specialist in family and geriatric medicine and also holds a PhD in Philosophy from the University of Toronto.

Dr. Sullivan, who will serve on the USMC Senate, is charged with executing the Institute's five principal objectives: (1) To provide research and analysis of the most pressing issues of the day, and to disseminate the fruits of that reflection widely by electronic and printed means; (2) to contribute to Canadian health care policy through regular communication with Catholic health care institutions, through government submissions, and media bulletins; (3) to educate, through public lectures and other program, those working in Catholic institutions who may be unfamiliar with the Catholic tradition and to help train the next generation of Canadian Catholic bioethicists, health care workers, lawyers, administrators, and politicians; (4) to support all Canadian Catholic caregivers, through gatherings for common prayer, mutual encouragement, and grass roots action, and by providing access to information resources and counseling services; (5) to provide a network linking academics, clinicians and ethicists in Catholic health care institutions and universities across Canada, and to connect them with other Catholic bioethics institutes and centres in other countries around the world. Dr. Sullivan looks forward to working closely with faculty and students at St. Michael's, and to being available to them as a resource, both inside and outside the classroom.

In preparation for the World Youth Day 2002, the Institute is organizing an International Conference on Bioethics, to take place at St. Michael's 18-24 May. To make suggestions or to seek further information, please contact: Phone, 416-926-2335; e-mail, bioethics@usmc.utoronto.ca; website, www.utoronto.ca/stmikes/bioethics.

McLuhan Program in Culture and Technology

UofT researchers at the McLuhan Program in Culture and Technology, housed on the St. Michael's campus, are helping to establish a leading international centre in Italy that will study the relationship between media and language from humankind's earliest writing systems to the Internet and beyond. The Alforabit Project, named for an expression invented by author James Joyce, will study the combination of two huge social powers: electricity and language. "Joyce loved to talk about the media," said Professor Derrick DeKerchove of the McLuhan Program and Professor of French at St. Michael's. "We picked the name because this word symbolizes the beginning of a major world culture to our present and future." Society needs this kind of centre, he added. "All literate societies, whether they revere or ignore the written word, seem to take its profound effects on mind and culture for granted. No other institution studies the comparative literacies of the world. For example, what is the impact of Chinese ideograms or Hebrew scripts on cognition? At Alforabit, we will be showing how other cultures work when it comes to the impact of media on language and mind. For example, the biggest mythical wedding of Western history is not that of Jupiter and Juno – it is that of language and electricity and our most powerful media are the children of this momentous wedding." To be located in Torino, Italy, the centre will be instrumental in supporting the Italian education system online.

BEGINS 150th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATIONS

It is true that Toronto was not awarded the Olympics. However, the words "LET THE EVENTS BEGIN!" will ring out on our campus as the new St. Michael's residence is blessed in a ceremony, followed by a reception, marking the official beginning of the series of special events celebrating the 150th anniversary of the founding of St. Michael's College. The new residence, consisting of five separate "houses" delineated by floor, will be academic home for one hundred and eighty one students almost entirely in single rooms with amenities that include a sink, carpeted floors, telephone, cable TV, high speed Internet connections, an intercom system, and air conditioning. Each "house" will have its own common room, and the ground floor will contain laundry facilities and music practice rooms.

The interior of the building is a far cry from what the founding Basilian Fathers of 1852 had in mind for the academic/church edifice (now St. Basil's Church/Odette Hall) that in 1856 would crown Clover Hill on the Elmsley Estate, a short distance from Bloor Street, then Toronto's northern city limit. However, the exterior of the new building, which echoes the architectural profile of the original Clover Hill structure, provides a striking symbol of St. Michael's faithful adherence to the fundamental principals upon which it was founded; a symbol of a still continuing one-hundred-and-fifty-year tradition of excellence in Catholic education.

All are welcome to the blessing and the reception

Another 150th Anniversary public event in October is the inaugural Frederic Charles Furlong Memorial Lecture entitled "Catholics and Jews Today. What has changed" to be given by His Eminence Cardinal Edward Cassidy, President Emeritus of the Pontifical Council for Christian Unity with responsibility for relations with the Jewish people. The lecture is on Sunday 21 Oct. at 8:00 P.M. in Sam Sorbara Hall, Brennan Hall. All are welcome; admission is free, no tickets are necessary.

Ask anyone at St. Mike's, "Who has the happiest, friendliest face on campus?" and ten chances to one the answer, for the past quarter-century, would be, "Why, Mario, of course!"

That's MARIO PUGLIESE – the amiable, affable, ever-smiling fellow with the flashing eyes, the rakish mustache, and the ready supply of rapid, Italian-flavoured English. Whether peering out from under his snow hat while clearing the drifts from our wintry sidewalks, or beaming out from under his sun hat while tending the summer flowers in the Brennan Hall rock garden, Mario might be Rossini's burly, diminutive Figaro, the factotum of Seville, brought cheerfully to life.

He comes by the operatic comparison honestly. Hailing from the hills of the Abruzzi, from a town about twenty kilometers from the Adriatic coast, his first job, when he came to Canada at age sixteen, was with the Malabar Costume Company. Tailoring was his trade, and he learned to love opera while sewing the great Canadian tenor Jon Vickers into his costumes. He proudly lists the names of the gentlemen he has suited up for the stage – Giuseppe Campora, Victor Braun, Louis Quilico – and the Toronto performances he has seen both backstage and up front. His favourite opera is Tosca – perhaps because the heroine of that melodrama sings "Mario! Mario!" at the slightest provocation.

It was, however, our beloved Inge Hoffman, the mistress of the Mail Desk that Mario wooed and won. Inge, whom he met while she was walking her dog on the Danforth, had been employed at St. Michael's for several years, and it was only a matter of time till the hard-working and largely self-educated Mario came to work here, too. There was landscaping to do, and he wanted to put his hands in the soil. His father had been a farmer "and proud of it." For Mario there was nothing better than working the land. I told him that the Latin poets I taught – Virgil, from the Po Valley, and Horace, another Pugliese – had said the same thing. Predictably, he smiled.

Inge and Mario married in 1969 and are now the proud parents of four daughters – Anna, Tania, Diana, and Gina – and one granddaughter, Natalie. The girls are so beautiful that I've always wondered why they spent time watching wrestling on TV. Possibly it was to learn how to handle the Giannis and Giuseppees who came knocking on the door. In any case, I've heard that at the Pugliese household Mama and the girls watch the heavyweights hit the mat on the upstairs set while Papa watches opera downstairs.

Mario, now in his early sixties, says that if he had his life to live over he would "do it all over again." He would work for St. Mike's, where he has made so many friends, where his co-workers and his bosses always treated him fairly, and where the Basilian Fathers were "always there when I needed them." The college, he says with pride, has been his "home away from home."

The amiable, affable,

In preparation for penning this piece, I asked any number of ladies on campus about Mario. "Oooh!" was the inevitable reply, "He's a charmer!" But Mario's heart belongs to Inge – and to those four beautiful daughters and the family that keeps growing. No wonder he has the happiest face at St. Michael's College!

Most Reverend John Boissonneau '70 New Auxiliary Bishop of Toronto

One thousand laity, 300 priests, and 30 bishops took part in the ceremony during which the Most Reverend John Boissonneau was ordained a bishop by His Eminence Aloysius Cardinal Ambrozic, Archbishop of Toronto in St. Michael's Cathedral 29 May 2001.

Toronto born, Bishop Boissonneau entered St. Augustine's Seminary in Toronto after graduation from Neil McNeil High School in 1967. After receiving his BA from St. Michael's/UofT in 1970 and his Bachelor of Sacred Theology degree in 1973 from St. Paul's University, Ottawa, Bishop Boissonneau was ordained a priest in 1974, and embarked on an outstanding priestly career as educator, scholar, administrator and spiritual counselor. After serving in various Chancery appointments, he went on for further studies, receiving a Licentiate in Theology from the Gregorian University in Rome, and a Doctorate in Theology from the University of St. Michael's College.

Bishop Boissonneau taught Systematic Theology at St. Augustine's Seminary and was an Associate Professor in the Toronto School of Theology. From 1992 until 2001 he was Rector and President of St. Augustine's Seminary; he has also served on the Archdiocesan College of Consultors and in 1996 was named Prelate of Honour with the title of Monsignor. As Auxiliary Bishop, Bishop Boissonneau will have responsibility for the western region of the Archdiocese of Toronto (Etobicoke, Mississauga, Brampton, Caledon). Among other duties, he will work with Fr. Tom Rosica, CSB in coordinating the preparations for the World Day of Youth 2002 to be held in Toronto next summer.

The Church in Toronto is fortunate to have Bishop John Boissonneau as one of its Auxiliary Bishops. The St. Michael's Alumni Association wish him well in his new pastoral role, and we assure him of our prayers.

150th Anniversary of the arrival of the St. Joseph Sisters in Toronto

On October 6,7,8, Thanksgiving weekend 2001, the Sisters of St. Joseph of Toronto of Upper Canada will commemorate the arrival in Toronto of the first four St. Joseph Sisters. A special Liturgy at St. Paul's Basilica Sunday 7 October will celebrate 150 years of service to Catholic communities in Canada and in Latin America. On Saturday 6 October the Sisters will celebrate this important anniversary with their associates and former members at Morrow Park, the Toronto Mother House; the Congregation will gather for a concluding celebration on Monday 8 October.

Furlong Memorial Lecture

A 150th Anniversary Event

On Sunday evening 21 October, His Eminence Cardinal Edward Cassidy will be the first speaker in a new lecture series established by Dr. William O'Hara in honour of Frederick Furlong '51, a St. Michael's graduate who recently passed away. The series will be offered under the auspices of the Christianity and Culture Program at St. Michael's College. Cardinal Cassidy, President Emeritus of the Pontifical Council for Christian Unity, will speak on "Catholics and Jews Today: What Has Changed." His address not only initiates the Furlong Memorial Lecture but is also one of the special events marking the beginning of the celebrations of the 150th anniversary of the College. The Cardinal's lecture precedes another 150th anniversary event, the conference on Catholic-Jewish Relations to be held at St. Michael's the following day, Monday 22 October. Although participation in the conference is by invitation, all are welcome to attend Cardinal Cassidy's address at 8:00 p.m. in the Sam Sorbara Auditorium, Brennan Hall.

The conference organizers, with the generous financial support of Joey and Toby Tanenbaum, are bringing to the St. Michael's campus leading Catholic and Jewish scholars to discuss "What Has Changed" in three thematic areas: the Hebrew Scriptures; the Catholic Church and the Holocaust; the Land of Israel. The conference will conclude with a roundtable discussion of the present state of Catholic-Jewish dialogue.

Invited conference speakers include Professor Michael Signer of the University of Notre Dame, Father Michael Kolarcik of Regis College, Toronto, Dr. Rosanne Catalano of the Institute for Christian and Jewish Studies in Baltimore, Professor Michael Marrus of the University of Toronto, Dr. Eva Fleischer, Professor Emerita, Montclair State University, Professor Jacques Kornberg of the University of Toronto, Professor David Novak, Director of the Jewish Studies Program at the University of Toronto, Professor Derek Penslar of the University of Toronto, Dr. Eugene Fisher, Associate Director of the Secretariat for Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs of the National Conference of US Catholic Bishops, Washington, D.C., and Rabbi Dow Marmur, Rabbi Emeritus, Holy Blossom Temple, Toronto.

Planned by a committee chaired by Father Daniel Donovan, this conference was inspired by the remarkable shift that has taken place in relations between Catholics and Jews during the last thirty years. It promises to be an exciting and important part of St. Michael's celebration of its 150th anniversary year. For further information about the public lecture, or to request an invitation to the conference sessions, please contact the Director of Continuing Education, Dr. Mimi Marrocco, at 416-926-7254.

Research Project

Loretto, St. Joseph's and St. Michael's: A Bit of History

In honour of the 150th anniversary of St. Michael's College, a research project has been launched under the University of Toronto's R.O.P. (Research Opportunity Program). The R.O.P. program was initiated several years ago to provide an opportunity for second-year undergraduate students to engage in primary research under the supervision of a professor. This coming year, under the guidance of Professor Mark McGowan, Director of the St. Michael's Christianity and Culture Program, a group of four SMC students have been selected to assist in a research project which is designed to identify and collect the various primary archival documents tracing the process by which St. Joseph's College and Loretto College became affiliated with St. Michael's College. The four students will search for and examine primary materials (letters, documents, newspaper and yearbook entries) with the aim of collecting the materials into a chronological format for future researchers. One year may very well be insufficient for accomplishing the full task, but it is hoped that enough interest will be generated to continue the project in future years if necessary and to ensure that the findings are published.

The program was designed in collaboration with Mark McGowan, Dr. Laurelle LeVert, Sr. Ellen Leonard, CSJ, Sr. Marion Norman, IBVM, Sr. Anne Marie Marrin, CSJ, and Sr. Conrad Lauber, CSJ. Of great importance will be the generous contributions, both previous and forthcoming, of Professor Elisabeth Smyth of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education/UofT, and of Linda Wicks, Sr. Juliana Dusel, IBVM, and Mrs. Evelyn Collins, the Archivists respectively of the Sisters of St. Joseph, the Sisters of Loretto, and St. Michael's College. Mrs. Evelyn Collins will be central to the task at hand.

St. Michael's New Millennium Golf Classic

This year's golf tournament was, as promised, a smashing success! St. Michael's College welcomed 120 guests to Angus Glen Golf Club in Markham, Ontario for a great day of golf. The excitement at Angus Glen began early in the morning, as Mike Weir, Sergio Garcia, David Duval and Vijay Singh began the second round of the Canadian Skins game. In the early afternoon, 25 teams of St. Mike's golfers teed off to compete for $10,000.00 in prizes. The winning team was led by Dennis O'Neil and Tom McCarthy of J. J. Barnicke, Ltd. In the evening, at the reception and dinner hosted by St. Mike's in the new Angus Glen MacKenzie dining room, alumni/ae, friends, celebrity guests, faculty members, and Basilian Fathers had a chance to meet and spend time together.

The Title Sponsor of our tournament was the Bank of Montreal, whose President and CEO, Tony Comper '66, was Honorary Chair of the Golf Committee. At the dinner, Joseph Sorbara '63, Chair of the Golf Committee, presented President Richard Alway with a cheque for $66,000.00; these funds will help meet construction costs of the new student residence at St. Michael's.

Over time, and over objections from local residents, their efforts were rewarded, and the Blessing and Official Opening ceremonies bore clear witness to the strength and Faith of the community of parents, students, administration, faculty and support staff that is Marshall McLuhan Catholic Secondary School.

Marshall McLuhan Catholic Secondary School

Sunday 6 May 2001 was a special day for the St. Michael's Community. That day was the Blessing and Official Opening of a Catholic Secondary School, named in honour of Marshall McLuhan, one of St. Michael's most renowned and influential teachers. Marshall McLuhan Catholic Secondary School is located in a beautifully renovated and augmented former military installation located at 1107 Avenue Road in Toronto. Mrs. Corinne McLuhan and other members of the McLuhan family attended the ceremony.

The origins and growth of the school would have delighted Marshall. A group of Catholic parents began to meet, initially in small numbers, to talk about the possibility of a Catholic secondary school in their area. Over time, and over objections from local residents, their efforts were rewarded, and the Blessing and Official Opening ceremonies bore clear witness to the strength and Faith of the community of parents, students, administration, faculty and support staff that is Marshall McLuhan Catholic Secondary School.

Fittingly, one of the school's central academic initiatives is electronic communication technology. Also most appropriately, St. Michael's graduates are members of the faculty; to note a few: Anna Convertini '77 is the recently appointed Principal of the school; Steve Carey '80 is the school Chaplain; Michael Xuereb '91 is on the staff and offered the Blessing Prayer at the opening ceremony.

Eric McLuhan, one of Marshall's sons, spoke at the blessing ceremony.

Continuing Education

As St. Michael's begins its year long celebration of 150 years of excellence in higher education, Continuing Education is proud to mark its own first 15 years with an ever broadening array of courses, workshops and new certificate collaborations. Our theme for last year was "Expanding Horizons" and expand them we did! The Certificate in Corporate Social Responsibility, initiated in collaboration with the Conference Board of Canada and Leadership Horizons, has grown to include a web-based component on "Foundational Issues in CSR", a development made possible by the generous financial contribution of one of our alumni, Robert Bexon (7T5) of Imperial Tobacco Ltd.

A Certificate in Service Provision to the Homeless has proven to be a valuable learning opportunity for front line workers in shelters and Out of the Cold program. During the closing session, participants spoke eloquently of their new understanding of homelessness as a lack of community that goes beyond a mere lack of shelter. Uniquely moving, each student's story underlined the personal and financial commitment of those enrolled in the certificate. We are delighted, therefore, that thanks to generous contributions from the Kiwanis Club of Casa Loma, Continuing Education and its Certificate partners, the Toronto Hostels Training Centre and T.A.P.E. (Toronto Advanced Professional Education) we will be awarding at least two bursaries beginning this fall to qualified candidates.

In keeping with St. Michael's academic roots as a liberal arts college, Continuing Education has entered into collaboration with the Niagara Institute and with the Great Books Foundation of Chicago to offer discussion opportunities for business leaders, educators and other university alumni. Ann Kirkland, currently working with the Continuing Education Division as a liberal arts co-ordinator, has planned fall events that include a Great Books weekend in Chautauqua, New York, 26-28 October 2001 and a four-day residential executive seminar in Niagara-on-the-Lake, 4-7 November 2001. For literary adventurers, an extended version of Classical Pursuits, our summer residential Great Books and Opera Program, will be held in Italy in May 2002. Our appreciation to St. Michael's graduate Alberto Di Giovanni '71 and to Professor Francesco Guardiani of the University's Italian Department for assistance in making arrangements for next spring.

Continuing Education welcomes comments, questions and program suggestions from our alumni. Do call us at 416-926-7254 or by e-mail: continuinged.stmikes@utoronto.ca. For a complete listing of this year's program and events, please visit the St. Michael's website: www.utoronto.ca/stmikes
