A Letter from the Editor

What a startling image the cover of the second issue of the DOUBLE BLUE, the University of St. Michael's College Alumni Newsletter, portrays! A dramatic rendition of St. Michael the Archangel, created by Anne Tully, gently reaches out to those journeying through the winter landscape of the St. Michael's Quadrangle.

I am excited about the progress of the newsletter project. After much work and dedication, the Communications Committee of the Alumni Board recommended to the editor and a specially appointed editorial committee, a balanced and workable process for future publications of the newsletter. Response from our readership has been overwhelmingly positive. As promised, this issue does contain a section of Letters to the Editor. Thank you to all those who took the time to write, e-mail, fax or call about your thoughts and impressions. Of course, I hope that you continue to keep in touch. Comments and suggestions are most welcome. All those who have suggestions for interesting stories or profiles for future issues are strongly encouraged to contact me.

The central feature of this issue is the interview I had with the newly appointed President of the University of Toronto, Professor Robert J. Birgeneau, SMC '63. St. Michael's College welcomes him and his wife, Mary Catherine Ware Birgeneau, SMC '62, back home to Toronto. Also of special interest, this issue's alumni profiles outline the purposeful and worthwhile endeavours of two graduates, one of the class of '27, the other of the class of '95.

Alumni Affairs is looking forward to the visit of Jean Vanier to St. Michael's on 27 October, 2000. He will not only deliver the Kelly Lecture at Convocation Hall that evening but will also hold a special workshop during the day primarily for theological students at the Toronto School of Theology and for a group from the Christianity and Culture programme at the college.

In addition to our alumni and friends, this newsletter will be sent, for the first time, to all students registered at St. Michael's College. For those of you who do not get much opportunity to join us on the St. Mike's campus, I hope that this newsletter will encourage you to stop by and become more active in the college community. We miss you!

Another important upcoming event: Spring Reunion 2000, to be held June 1st to June 4th, promises to be terrific. The honoured years from the class of '25, to the class of 2000 have planned some special events, but all alumni and friends are welcomed Friday evening for the All Alumni reception in Brennan Hall.

Enjoy your newsletter!

New President at UofT St. Mike's Grad

On 30 November, 1999, the University of St. Michael's College community was delighted to learn that one of its alumni, Robert J. Birgeneau, class of '63, had been named President of the University of Toronto, effective 1 July, 2000. For the first time in its 173-year history, the University of Toronto has chosen a St. Michael's College graduate, and he will lead the University into the 21st Century.

Dr. Birgeneau, born in Toronto, attended St. Michael's College School, where he received a Classics scholarship to enter St. Michael's College at the University of Toronto. He received his B.Sc. in Mathematics in 1963, going on to earn his Ph.D. in Physics from Yale in 1966. After a year on the faculty at Yale, through the National Research Council of Canada, he did research for a year at Oxford. He was on the technical staff at Bell Laboratories in New Jersey from 1968 to 1975. He became a Professor of Physics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in 1975. Dr. Birgeneau was named the Cecil and Ida Green Professor of Physics in 1982, becoming Head of the department in 1988. He was appointed Dean of Science in 1991. His distinguished career has been highlighted with many international awards, including most recently the J.E. Lilienfeld Award, American Physical Society, 2000. His publications have focused on his primary area of research - the phases and phase transition behaviour of novel states of matter.

Dr. Birgeneau is married to a fellow St. Michael's alumna, Mary Catherine Ware, class of '62. They have three daughters and one son and are the proud grandparents of a new grandson. Mary Catherine is a social worker, interested in the area of early childhood.

Dr. Birgeneau graciously accepted my invitation on 15 January, 2000, to be interviewed for this issue of DOUBLE BLUE. He was joined by his wife, Mary Catherine, and met with President Richard Alway, Rev. Richard Donovan, CSB, Brian O'Malley and myself at Carr Hall on our snow covered campus. Dr. Birgeneau and I spoke about his return to the campus after 37 years.

Birgeneau is clearly excited and challenged about the opportunity awaiting him as the incoming President of the University of Toronto. He comments that the current President, Robert Prichard, has done "a terrific job" in leaving the university in a strong financial position. Birgeneau sees the UofT as an "unique" institution in which its college structure in the very large university setting provides a special character emphasizing "human ties". Added to this is the location of the university within the greater Toronto area - one of the most popular and attractive large urban centres in the world.

"The city of Toronto has improved radically." Birgeneau claims. He sees the university, ranked number one in Canada, as a public university that plays a diversified role in an exciting, metropolitan area. His ambition is to make the University of Toronto "one of the great public universities in the world." He says that Toronto is culturally, socially and politically attractive. This will bring in international scholars of all sorts to the university. Birgeneau wants to maintain and enhance the broad strength of the institution. He sees the principal challenge in the next few years as effectively overseeing the influx of significant numbers of highly qualified talented new faculty. This leads to the question of financial support.

Birgeneau is looking to the Provincial Government and the private sector, both corporations and individuals, for support. He also mentioned recent Federal Government efforts as being hopeful. His long experience at MIT has made him well aware of the differences in the American and Canadian attitudes to educational philanthropy. As an alumnus, he commented that he felt that it was important to give back to the institutions that contributed to one's success. He made a special note as a graduate of both St. Michael's College School and St. Michael's College that his education at both locations gave him a marked advantage regarding his ability as a scientist to write and speak effectively. He stressed his support of need-based financial aid as he asserted that everyone who is qualified should be able to come to the university. The financial aid structure should first attend to those who otherwise could not come. In 1995 Dr. and Mrs. Birgeneau established a scholarship fund at St. Michael's College for undergraduate student aid for "inner-city" students. It has been established for financially needy students from the parishes of St. Helen's, St. Anthony's or any other downtown parish. The first Birgeneau scholar will be named next summer coinciding with Bob and Mary Catherine's return to Toronto.

In turning to a more nostalgic view, Dr. Birgeneau stressed the important part that the college structure played in his undergraduate educational experience. As graduates respectively of St. Michael's College School and Loretto College, Brunswick, Bob and Mary Catherine considered St. Michael's College their obvious choice for university. They were both day students when they entered first year in 1959. As Bob studied Mathematics, Physics and Chemistry, better known as MPC, he attended most of his classes "Cross Campus". Mary Catherine, as an English specialist, attended most of her classes at St. Michael's.

A Letter from the Alumni President

Goals. Everybody has them. Whether you're a five-year-old trying to ride your first bike just to the end of the driveway; or a CEO trying to hit your revenue target for the year. We all have goals.

They're important in our everyday lives so that we feel we have a purpose; something we're working towards. The alumni board is no different. We have almost 30 people made up of alumni, students, staff and faculty who are working on your behalf – and more goals than you can shake a stick at.

Along with goals come many challenges, and we're now facing some of them. We have an amazing group of volunteers on the board that is enthusiastic and committed – but overworked. According to the U of T Alumni Office, St. Mike's is the most active and successful alumni group in the university. That's a great feather in our cap, but a hard reputation to keep up.

To combat this, we've been recruiting alumni who are experts in key areas such as special events, Web site production, marketing and fundraising. These alumni don't have the responsibility of sitting directly on the board, but are providing their time and expertise on specific committees or organizing groups. They can come in for a special project and leave when it's completed, knowing they've accomplished something – they've helped us reach a goal.

Any of you who feel you can contribute to an event, a newsletter, our Web site, or any other project – please contact the Membership Committee via the Alumni Office at 416-926-7260. We have more goals ahead of us – and we need your help to achieve them.

Thanks to all who are helping now and who have helped in various ways over the years. Your participation and assistance is deeply appreciated!

Although they had met briefly in high school, the Birgeneaus discovered each other again at a dance held for Frosh at St. Michael's during Orientation Week. The rest is history. They met daily at the Coop, then in Carr Hall, and enjoyed the wonderful social atmosphere of the St. Michael's community. Both remembered faculty from this period. Mary Catherine reminisced about the kindness of the Registrar, Rev. Hugh Mallon, CSB. She recalled Rev. Dick Donovan, CSB opening his French classes with a joke from the French edition of the Reader's Digest. She studied English with Marshall McLuhan, who told the class that anyone who understood media could become famous and that he himself might someday be renowned. Bob remembered thought-provoking instructions in Religious Knowledge, better known as RK, with Father David Belyea, CSB and Gregory Baum.

Birgeneau recalls humorously, his athletic experiences at St. Mike's as a member of the intramural SMC "B" basketball team with the Schmidt brothers, Don and Ted. They had a lot of fun even if sometimes the team fell short of rivaling the Raptors.

For the Birgeneaus, both the community and the educational offerings at St. Michael's in the sixties provided a rich, balanced undergraduate experience. This small college in the large, rich university seemed the best of both worlds. Two years ago Mary Catherine attended Spring Reunion where she was able to renew some of those earlier friendships.

The Birgeneaus are returning to Toronto greatly anticipating the opportunities awaiting them both at the university and in the city. We at St. Michael's welcome them back home. I know that you, as members of the life-long community of St. Michael's, join me in wishing them well. We look forward to seeing them often.

Jean Vanier: Loving Builder of Arks

In January 1964, a philosophy class gathered in a Teefy Hall classroom to meet their new ethics professor. Nobody knew him, though the name was familiar - Vanier. The Canadian Governor-General of the day was Georges Vanier. A tall, angular man bustled into the room clutching a stack of books. In the days that followed, the class learned that Jean Vanier was, indeed, the son of the Governor-General. But his background was less important than his presence. He had a way of being with people, of listening with his eyes as well as his ears.

Biographical notes about Jean often mention that he was a university professor, but not always that his only university teaching was the one semester at St. Mike's. I was in that ethics class. Looking back, I know that Vanier was one of my best teachers ever. When he spoke, you felt his passion and conviction. But more importantly, when he invited his students to speak, as he often did, he would not accept superficial comments but would gently question and encourage a deeper response. What I could not be aware of then was the degree to which this man and his work would affect the course of my life.

Vanier's sojourn at SMC was a prelude to another project towards which his heart was drawn. He left Toronto for France at the end of the spring semester. In the village of Trosly, by the Forest of Compiègne, he bought a small house, and invited three men to live with him. These men had developmental handicaps and had long been institutionalized. Together they began fixing the house and working the garden. Jean named the house "L'Arche". The word means "The Ark", as in Noah's Ark - a place of refuge in difficult times, but also a means of pilgrimage towards a new life.

As L'Arche gradually grew, the call went out for help. In 1966, I went to Trosly, planning to stay only a few months, but remained for a year. Then, as Vanier's reputation grew, there was a groundswell of support. Hundreds of Canadians and people of other nationalities went to L'Arche in France, and many of these later contributed to the growth of L'Arche as a world movement. L'Arche now numbers over a hundred communities around the globe: in Canada and the Americas, Eastern and Western Europe, Africa, the Middle East, Australia, India and the Western Pacific.

A L'Arche community may have one or many houses where people come together to live with and assist those who have developmental handicaps. It is a movement, Vanier would say, of "downward mobility" - moving from the comfort and the self-sufficiency of our modern consumer age towards valuing and embracing those who have been marginalized and rejected as of little worth to society. It is, for Vanier, a response to the call of Jesus to reach out to "the least ones" among us.

My year in Trosly led eventually to fifteen more years living in L'Arche with my family. My story parallels that of many men and women, single and married, lay and religious, who have committed large portions of their lives to L'Arche. My family and I received so much from the people of L'Arche, but L'Arche has also contributed a great deal to the field of human service and to the Church. Day by day, with simple actions, L'Arche communities demonstrate how love can overcome fear. L'Arche and its founder are teaching the world that acceptance is more important than competition, reconciliation more important than domination, and community more important than efficiency.

Jean has frequently spoken in Toronto, but it is joyful news that this fall he will return to St. Michael's. On 27 October, 2000, in the afternoon, he will speak on the theology of L'Arche, exploring the difference between doing the theology and living it. That evening, he will give the annual Kelly Lecture, in which he will reflect on the meaning of the new millennium. The Second Millennium was a time marked by much division and violence in the world. Can the Third Millennium be a time of reconciliation?

Jean Vanier is recognized as a great Canadian not because of his privileged background but because he has chosen a life of love. In one of his many books, Images of Love, Words of Hope, he writes (pg 81): "We don't have to do big things. We don't have to be heroes. We are just called to be ourselves and to do little things of love."

Leo Knowlton

While studying at St. Michael's College, William Leo Knowlton developed a love for Philosophy that has never left him. This is obvious by his generous and unsolicited donation in the fall of 1999 to establish a permanently endowed lectureship in Philosophy and Theology. This permanent endowment will fund an annual course in Philosophy or Theology in the Christianity and Culture programme which was established in 1979 through a grant from the St. Michael's Annual Fund and has become a flagship programme at St. Michael's. In addition, the donation is such so as to allow the College to re-institute the Cardinal Mercier medal with a prize to be given annually to the student with the highest first-class honors in Fourth Year Philosophy. The medal and new prize will be known as the Mercier-Knowlton prize and will be a permanent recognition of Leo Knowlton's firm belief in the importance of Philosophy in the curriculum. The Mercier prize had been awarded annually from 1924-1969; it recognized the work of Cardinal Mercier relative to the philosophy of St. Thomas Aquinas. Among the distinguished graduates who have won the medal are Leo Knowlton himself (1927) and our present President, Dr. Richard Alway (1962). This prize will be re-established for the school year 2000-2001.

William Leo Knowlton, known as Leo, graduated from St. Michael's College School with honors; thereafter he attended Saint Michael's College at the UofT, where he obtained a BA. He subsequently studied law at Osgoode Hall. He was called to the Bar in 1930, practiced law until he joined the Canada Permanent Trust Company where his professional career centered on Wills, Trusts and Estates. He was granted his K.C. in 1948. He served with the Canada Permanent Trust Company for some 35 years and at the time of his retirement was the Executive Vice-President and General Manager. He was Vice-President of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation, Chairman of the Board of Zurich Life Insurance Company, and director of many other corporate boards; he also served on the board of Princess Margaret Hospital, and was a member of the advisory board of St. Michael's Hospital.

Mr. Knowlton has lived all his life in Toronto and has devoted that life to his professional career in a specialized field, but more importantly to his family, his daughters Mary (Mrs. Fran Matthews) and Adele (Mrs. Hugh O'Connell), his grandchildren and great grandchildren, all of whom have had and continue to have a deep affection for him.

Those who know him professionally have recognized Leo's integrity and business acumen; he has also been known for his loyal support for the University of Toronto and St. Michael's College, Providence Villa and other charities. St. Michael's thanks Leo Knowlton for this generous donation, and for his many previous contributions to the College.

Michael James

Mike James '96, son of the Hon. Joe James '67 and Jane McNab '67, knows all about what it's like being at close quarters with a 300-kg leatherback sea turtle.

"Actually they're quite docile, given the fact that they're the largest reptile on earth, and extremely fast swimmers." James knows this because he had to tag one with a tracking device this summer as part of his groundbreaking research on the movements of this critically endangered species.

"I'm working on a thesis that has a strong conservation thrust. A couple of years ago, I noticed that while there had been some documentation of leatherbacks on Canada's East Coast, little had been done on this species since the 1960's. There has been a significant drop in their numbers over the last 15 years or so, and part of my work focuses on finding out why this has happened, and how it can be reversed."

In order to facilitate this research, James recognized that he had to enlist a considerable phalanx of qualified volunteers: local fishers. "I was pleasantly surprised by the enthusiastic community response that I encountered." James personally requested the assistance of fishers in documenting leatherback turtle sightings. "This is a community-based initiative," James recounts, "The work just couldn't happen without the fishers' help."

Local fishers collect data such as sea surface temperature, and latitude and longitude, when they spot leatherbacks. "I have a toll free number that they can call to report the information. One of the project sponsors is Fuji, so the fishers also try to take photos for us, using the one-use cameras that the company has donated. It doesn't hurt that the turtles are charismatic organisms - we have received some remarkable pictures.

In his first year of doctoral work at Dalhousie, James, along with his wife Kathleen Martin, SMC '95, daughter of Jim '69 and Kathleen Fowlie Martin '68, have called Halifax home for just over two years. "When I'm out on the water, I'm still absolutely blown away by seeing the whales and turtles that are pretty commonplace to the people that have lived here all their lives."

James and Martin met in James' first year at St. Mike's. "Actually, we have Fred Flahiff to thank for that connection," James laughs, "Kathleen and I became friends in his English class. We enjoyed the class so much that we ended up taking a number of his other courses together." Master's studies took James and Martin to Queen's where they studied education and English respectively.

Martin now teaches business communications at Acadia while James and the turtles continue to get acquainted.

James' immediate research area stretches from the Gulf of Maine to the Grand Banks, but technology has the potential to expand it significantly.

"One of our most exciting opportunities was tagging a leatherback a couple of months ago with a satellite data recorder." The recorder provided a wealth of information on the turtle's (named Sherman) peregrinations. "Sherman was the first turtle that Kathleen ever saw, and it was the one and only time that she was in the field with us," James recalls.

Thus far, Sherman is the only leatherback that the team has tagged with a satellite-tracking device, but information from tagging the turtles with these "backpacks" is pivotal to James' research. "The tags provide us with high resolution data that lets us get a good idea of what sort of environment the turtles prefer, for example water salinity and temperature. There is just no way that we could track them long-term otherwise; these turtles have an incredible range. The same turtles that nest in Trinidad can appear just a few months later in Norway."

Now that James' field season is over for this year, he is preparing to "sit down and write" - everything from thesis work to grant proposals for funding for additional satellite tags. In fact, the only thing that may keep James from attending Spring Reunion at St. Mike's this year is the return of Sherman and his cohorts.

Recruitment at St. Michael's College

In his document Planning for the St. George Colleges: A Raising our Sights Companion, the University of Toronto Provost recommended that all the Colleges develop a plan to "assess the effectiveness of recruitment activities and strategies, including an assessment of the quality of entering students", a plan that would emphasize each college's diverse strengths. As an alumna, and now as Registrar, I feel strongly that St. Michael's College has much to offer prospective students: the personal attention which every student receives when they come to the St. Michael's Registrar's Office for assistance in academic or personal matters; the Chaplaincy; our residence facilities; and, our special academic programmes. More importantly, however, St. Michael's is a friendly and informal community that welcomes students of all backgrounds.

In 1998, the University of Toronto appointed its first Director of Recruitment, and, as a result, our efforts shifted from outreach to more direct contact with students once they applied or were offered admission. The responsibility for initiating contact now falls largely on the staff at the University's Visitor's Centre. Last fall, Ms. Geralyn George, St. Michael's newly appointed Director of Transition and Associate Registrar, assisted the staff at the Visitor's Centre by visiting many of the Catholic High Schools in the Toronto area.

In addition to the collaboration with the Visitor's Centre and the Faculty of Arts & Science, there are a number of initiatives which we plan to implement, and, which we hope will encourage students to make us their number one choice at the University of Toronto: Guidance Counselors from the Catholic high schools in the Toronto and Greater Toronto Area will be invited to visit the College and learn more about our programmes, faculty and facilities; a new recruitment brochure and poster are being designed; and, we will be looking at increasing alumni participation in promoting the College and its programmes.

At St. Michael's we are proud to be part of the University of Toronto's College system. Our students have the double benefit of belonging to a large research university, while still being part of the smaller College community. Throughout the year, the Student Union, the Residence Councils, the Day-Student Committees, and the Chaplaincy organize spiritual, cultural and sports events, plays, concerts, and social issues forums. St. Michael's is also home to three interdisciplinary programs: Celtic Studies, Christianity and Culture, and Mediaeval Studies. Students have access to the J.M. Kelly Library, which, in addition to its extensive collection, also houses the Research Commons - over 60 computers that are available to students for searching online library catalogues, using Internet resources and word-processing. Also located in the Library are the Writing Centre and the Math Aid Centre to assist students in preparing assignments and in gaining fuller control of their subjects.

B.A. (SMC 1972),
M.Ed. (1989)*

Any student who is offered admission to St. Michael's College will be strongly encouraged to visit the Registrar's Office and meet with one of our counselors to discuss their offer of admission and learn more about the College. Small academic orientation group sessions will be held from mid-April until mid-August and will be open to any student who has been offered admission to St. Michael's College (this information will also be available on the St. Michael's College web site, <http://www.utoronto.ca/stmikes/undergrad/>).

Other transition activities will include a Student/Parent Orientation Weekend, which is aimed at introducing first-year students, and their families, to the campus, to faculty and to other students. A separate orientation session will be held for parents, during which time they will have the opportunity to ask questions (without fear of embarrassing their children) and gain first-hand exposure to the student's new environment.

I would also like to take this opportunity to invite alumni to inform me of your sons' or daughters' applications to St. Michael's College. With advance written notice of an application, we can ensure the admission to St. Michael's of a candidate who meets the requirements for admission to the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto and for whom St. Michael's is a preferred college choice. Because of the number of students who apply to study at St. Michael's, we are not always able to admit all eligible applicants; however, we do maintain a practice of admitting all eligible applicants whom we know are sons or daughters of alumni.

The university admission process can, at times, appear to be both daunting and complex. Both our office (416-926-7117) and the Office of Admissions and Awards (416-978-2190) will be happy to clarify points of procedure. With advance notice, we will also be happy to schedule individual appointments and tours of the campus.

If you could see us now: recent developments in the John M. Kelly Library

Alumni who have not been in the John M. Kelly Library since last year are in for a surprise should they come to visit it now or to take out books. (Remember: Alumni cards are available at $5.00 for two years).

On the ground floor, in the area in which the card catalogue was previously located, a Research Commons offers students, faculty, staff and alumni access to 47 fully equipped computer working stations and a scanner in a newly repainted and recarpeted setting with improved lighting and new furniture especially designed for workstations featuring ergonomically designed chairs.

The development of the Research Commons was made possible by the provision of funds for the computers and furniture by Professor Carl Amrhein, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science, and Professor Adel Sedra, Vice-President and Provost of the University of Toronto, and also through the generosity of the University of St Michael's College, which subsidised the building improvements.

The generosity of the University of Toronto to the John M. Kelly Library at this particular time is the result of the response in the fall of 1998 by the Kelly Library to a plea by the Arts and Science Student Union (ASSU) for more study space, by making the first floor of the Library available to students for 24 hours a day during the pre-exam and exam period. This particular service, very widely used, was also made available in the spring and fall of 1999. To further relieve some of the pressure on students studying for exams, eating and drinking is now allowed in the Reading Room and three food-dispensing machines were installed in this room. It takes more than funds to make a project a success, however, and the Library is anxious to recognise its debt to a great many people. Early in 1999, an administrative committee was formed, composed of Ray deSouza and Julia McCammond, UofT Faculty of Arts and Science, David Sutherland, UT Computing and Networking Services, Louise Girard and Noel McFerran, the Kelly Library, and Rudy Tyono,

Assistant Director of USMC Physical Plant. The members of this Committee contributed many hours to the project. The Library is also very grateful for the important contributions to the project of: Carol Gilbert of Gilbert & Nightingale Interiors; all the members of the Library staff; a number of student assistants; the staff of the Physical Plant Department, especially David Johnson (electrical work) Giuseppe Carnovale (carpentry), Gang He, Germano Oliveira and Francisco Zimmerman. The Library happily welcomed many of these invaluable supporters to the 30 September 1999 open house and official opening of the Research Commons opened.

On 1 July, the Library welcomed the new director of the Sable Centre, Dr Yannick Portebois, Assistant Professor in the Department of French. The Centre is unique at the University of Toronto in that it is a joint operation of an academic department and a library; the Library providing its valuable Collection Romantique (the gift of the late Fr. Joseph Sable, former professor at St Michael's and which the Library continues to enrich and maintain) while the Department of French provides an administrative and academic infrastructure aimed at developing this valuable asset into an internationally recognized research centre. Concurrently with the development of the Research Commons the Library undertook some renovations in the Centre, including a seminar room, increased security measures, and an expanded internet connection. The valuable Zola Collection and the Collection Romantique have been integrated and the Centre is now called the Centre d'études du 19e siècle français Joseph Sable/Joseph Sable Centre for 19th Century French Studies. We look forward to further exciting Sable Centre developments.

News from Continuing Education at St. Michael's

Congratulations to Lifelong Learners Tara Cakebread and Natanael Mateus Ruiz. Their experience of Youth Ministry Certificate studies at St. Michael's has resulted in a lifelong commitment not only to ministry with youth, but to each other. Their wedding date has been set for August 2000. Tara (whose mother Wanda completed the Certificate in Youth Ministry some five years ago) and Natanael were among 16 continuing education students who were awarded Certificates at the annual St. Michael's Convocation ceremony on 27th November. Other graduates included Catholic Leadership Certificate candidates Jane and Raymond Contois (whose partnership in learning led to their marriage last spring), Marilyn Weber from Casper, Alberta, and St. Michael's alumna Joan (Gregoire) Breech (SMC '73), currently Vice-President of St. Joseph's Health Centre. Michael J. Fullan, executive director of Catholic Charities, became the first graduate from Catholic Social Services to be awarded the certificate, which was designed originally for leaders in Catholic Health Care, and later broadened in scope to include participants from Education and Social Services.

Classical Pursuits 2000

Looking for a special vacation? Why not come back to campus this July for a week-long learning experience guaranteed to bring back University memories — and create some wonderful new ones. Last summer's participant, Gene Johnson from Ohio, called Classical Pursuits "the best vacation (we've) had in years." Rhoda Horowitz from New York, here with her daughter Sherry Pittle from Ft. Lauderdale, described her week as "a great program...a great staff... pleasant surroundings... a wonderful group of people. The perfect atmosphere for learning." She went on to point out that "no prerequisites were needed to get great benefits." St. Michael's alumna Mary Bird (SMC 6T9) writes: "During my undergraduate years I often lamented the glancing visit I paid to a literary classic as I rushed through it on the way to next week's assignment or overdue essay. Now there's a way to journey back to some of those roads not taken. Classical Pursuits offers a glorious opportunity to sit down with a classic, savour its merits and enjoy an extended conversation with ten to twelve readers of similar bent. It's a leisurely and stimulating journey, in the company of readers as varied as Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims. It's an intellectual voyage with the classic, itself, at the helm. I spent one week last summer discovering Dostoyevsky's Crime and Punishment. Morning after morning we met to talk about Raskolnikov, Nineteenth-Century St. Petersburg, matters of law and order, ethics, good and evil, plot development. Our tutor was not a Dostoyevsky expert but a practicing novelist. Other groups were tackling Plato, Dante and Wagner."

July 2000 promises to be even better. Participants are invited to live on (or near) campus, to select one of the seven works we're featuring this summer: to read, to listen, to dialogue, attend afternoon lectures (if they wish), enjoy theatre, art, music and above all the companionship of like-minded enthusiasts of great books and opera.

Boozer Brown Game of Century A Red Hot Set-To

Clear blue skies and warm temperatures greeted the biggest turn out seen in many years at the annual October Alumni-Student Touch Football Showdown. The Alumni were smarting from a prior 1998 starching by the students and wanted to end the century with a better show.

The much loved Coach Lex Byrd (8 Mulock Cup Championships) was on hand in referee attire to call what would be four slam-jam quarters as full of action as a riot in a cordite mill. The undefeated student touch team elected to receive the ball and drove down to the Alumni goal line, as they would do many times in the first half. A combination of luck and timing allowed the Alumni to dodge bullets while they managed just one score of their own in the first half.

In the third quarter, the teams traded scores and the students (trailing 2-1) drove again to the Alumni goal line. The older Alumni were now starting to flag, but again the students were denied. In the fourth quarter, QB Mike "Cool Hand" Day ('83) threw a spiral to Mr. Al "Hands" Hardy ('80), who made the catch while sliding on one knee in the corner of the end zone. Pandemonium ensued as the game then ended 3-1 and there were hand shakes all around.

This was a merry melee that would go big if repeated anywhere on the scrap map. The Bud Boozer Brown Loving Cup was presented to senior Alum Frank Kielty ('58), a storied and all around fine fellow.

The loving Cup sits atop an old maple Telephone Box from Bud Brown's Residence at St. Mikes. Bud was instrumental in St. Mike's first Mulock Cup Football Championship in the early 1930's. Legend has it that this box was used by Bud to store good cheer. But the story also goes that he put his carefree days at St. Mike's behind him when he later served with distinction in Europe and then in the Canadian Bar, before retiring to the far north west.

After the game, strains of the old school song were heard. Hum a few bars if ever you feel blue. It really will perk you up.

There's a red light on the track for Boozer Brown
There's a red light on the track for Boozer Brown
There's a red light on the track
It'll be there when we get back
There's a red light on the track for Boozer Brown

As we go marching, and the band begins to p-l-a-y
Hear the people shouting
O, SMC will surely win today

Many thanks to Eva Wong and Mary Ellen Burns of the Alumni office for the lovely reception after the game.

See you at next year's game. All who want to play or just watch and enjoy are encouraged to do so.

Celtic Studies

At a reception in Charbonnel Lounge in November 1999, Oxford University Press launched Tales of the Elders of Ireland in its "Oxford World Classics" series. Tales is a new translation and edition (with introduction, notes, and commentary) by Celtic Studies Professor Ann Dooley and UofT Professor Harry Roe of Acallamh na Senorach, the great collection of Celtic medieval tales. In the December 3, 1999 issue of TLS, Irish poet Paul Muldoon picked Tales of the Elders as his second choice for the book of the year (his first choice being Seamus Heaney's translation of Beowulf.)

Faculty of Theology

Wilma Scherloski is the newly appointed Facilitator of Lay Spiritual Formation. Wilma brings to her new position in the Faculty broad educational experience, including service as a high school Principal and as the former Superintendent of Education for the Hamilton/Wentworth Roman Catholic Board. She was recently honoured at the annual meeting of Women in Educational Administration in Ontario with the Helen Horn Leadership Award in recognition of her "outstanding leadership in the education community of the Province of Ontario."

At the St. Michael's Convocation on November 27, 1999, Cardinal Aloysius Ambrozic, Chancellor of the University of St. Michael's, conferred honorary degrees on the Most Rev Attila Miklós-házy, SJ, Bishop of Hungarian Emigrants around the world and former Acting Dean of Theology at St. Michael's, Rev M Owen Lee, CSB '53, Professor Emeritus of Classics and internationally renowned opera commentator, and Dr Dora de Pédery-Hunt, Canadian sculptor, and designer of coins and medals. Degrees, diplomas, and certificates were also conferred upon sixty-seven successful candidates from St. Michael's Faculty of Theology and the Division of Continuing Education.

Letters to the Editor:

I think it looks quite splendid ... I get the sense too from the Update section that it is able to cover not only the graduates of St. Michael's College but also those of the Faculty of Theology, thereby becoming a true University of St. Michael's College alumni newsletter."

Richard Toporoski

"Just a note to thank you for a very excellent newsletter. I enjoy it very much particularly the "Info Update Section". I also read with great care the R.I.P. section. I was relieved to see none from the class of 1950. I wish you much success in the future and the coming issues."

J. Pat McLoughlin '50

"The new St. Mike's Double Blue Newsletter arrived today and I really enjoyed it - the picture on the front, the enlightening messages inside, the snap shots and just about everything - you have done a terrific job."

Marie Tosoni '43

"Congratulations to you and your committee for the "new look" Alumni Newsletter! What an exciting way to usher in the new millennium."

Kathleen A. Bennett '40

I commend you on your efforts in putting out Double Blue ... one of the things it seems to communicate to me is that the alumni of St. Mike's are part of a living community and not just a remembrance of things past. Reading it made me enthusiastic about the role of alumni in the life of the university. Good Job!

Faith, Hope and Charity The Annual Fund 1999 - 2000 at St. Michael's

What an exciting time at the Alumni Affairs and Development office as Christmas drew near. Staff eagerly awaited each day's mail delivery as the responses to "What do you remember about St. Mike's" came in. "Faith, Hope and Charity," an Annual Fund request sent by Patrick J. Carroll, the Chair of this year's appeal to over 18,000 alumni and friends had struck a chord. The good news is that 78% of the target of $750,000 set for this year's Annual Fund has been reached.

The Annual Fund provides critical financial support to St. Michael's College. You have heard that the financial health of the College is improving. Dramatic measures have resulted in a marked turn around on campus. We are not quite there, but the situation is improving and hopeful. Support from our alumni and friends has been essential to the success we have experienced thus far. The donations made through the Annual Fund are directly applied to the following top priorities: the unique College academic programmes in Christianity and Culture and in Celtic Studies; chaplaincy; scholarships and bursaries; aid to student organizations; the John M. Kelly Library; Continuing Education.

The Annual Fund is accompanied by other efforts. The GRADitude 2000 campaign, planned and implemented by members of the graduating class, will raise funds for the refurbishing of Elmsley Place, better known to some of you as "Flower Pot Lane". Another example of student generosity is the pledge given by current students to support the upkeep of campus locations most used by students.

One area where we need to improve this year's Annual Fund campaign is the participation rate; only 12% of our alumni have responded thus far. We are grateful for any size of donation that you can make. We want you to participate in this success. If you have not contributed, it is not too late. The campaign continues to April 30, 2000. Contact us by mail, fax at 416-926-2339, or e-mail at smc.alumni@utoronto.ca.

1998-99 Annual Fund Donor Donors

The following list is of donors of $100 or more, received between 1 May, 1998 and 30 April, 1999, to the St. Michael's College Annual Fund. Please note that non-Annual Fund donations to St. Michael's College and donations made to other areas at the University of Toronto are not included in this list.

The wishes of those who notified us of their choice to remain anonymous have, to the best of our ability, been respected. If your name should be here and is not, we apologize; please let us know.

The students, faculty and staff of St. Michael's College offer their sincere and heartfelt thanks to everyone who contributed to the success of the 1998-99 St. Michael's College Annual Fund.

“Michael shimmering in the Quad”

*Michael still shimmers in the Quad,
Wings glistening for whoever looks,
Whoever sees ... while students
plodding over theories and theorems in books
Pass by My
You're
Our reminder of angelic flight
Winged from a soul's delight*
